Culture Events at Wofford:

In addition, they are enthusiastic exponents of new music and have premiered works composed for their duo.

Ongoing:

3D: Optic Wonders from Special Collections, Sandor Teszler Library Gallery

Stereoscopes are making a comeback—Get ready to see the world as it appeared more than 100 years ago! The stereoscope, a small headset-viewer introduced to the public at the 1851 Crystal Palace Exhibition in London, mimics the brain's ability to combine different perspectives from the left and right eyes to perceive depth. Stereoscopes allow for 3D views that give the illusion of immersion in a scene. Viewers in the 19th and early 20th centuries found themselves transported to faraway locales, luxurious palace interiors, and modern industrial sites. In this exhibition, images from stereographs held in Special Collections are enlarged 1200 percent and converted into anaglyph 3D, viewable with the red-and-blue-lensed glasses provided.

Starting Friday, February 5th, 2016:

EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS: Works by Jessica Elaine Blinkhorn, Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery

EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS juxtaposes the hyper-sexualized with the desexualized. The forms are paired with balloons, which function as a surrogate for life. The exhibit is intended to show that form does not matter, and that socially integrated expectations can be damaging to the individual. Through EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS, Blinkhorn shows that life is short and at times unfair, but it still offers opportunities to tell our story.

Spartanburg Art Museum

Exhibit Time(s): Tues. - Sat. 10am-5pm, Sun. 1-5pm

Cognitive Dissonance collects [nine] artists who hold a contrary view. It does not matter how perfect the political system, how egalitarian the access for information or how baroque the manners and mores of a society—it remains imperfect. Humans are the brick with which any society is constructed—and this necessary element is imperfect. People are as corrupt, superstitious and altruistic today as they were when the first man painted buffalo's on a cave in Lascaux, France.

Society is only as perfect as the material it is forged from. Just as ceramics is only as pure as the material it is made from. Faced with this assertion, nihilism becomes seductive. The artists selected to be in Cognitive Dissonance all eschew this assumption. Their works affirm that imperfection is not only essential but in some ways glorious. As such, the lively experiment started in Rhode Island, continues today and perpetually.

To: All Members of the Wofford College Community

Date: February 1, 2016

Members of the Campus Safety and Residence Life staffs have been reviewing the reported issues related to Hoverboards and their related products.* We examined how other college and universities were addressing these issues as well as the recommended safety guidelines.

Reports disclose that the batteries in these devices may be dangerous and may have led to explosions and/or fire in multiple cases. Three major airlines have banned them from all flights due to fire hazards associated with the batteries.

Effective immediately, Wofford College prohibits the use, possession or storage of Hoverboards, Swagways or similar devices in all Wofford buildings. This includes, but is not limited to, residence halls, classroom buildings, administration buildings and indoor recreational facilities. If you have one of these devices, please remove it from campus.

The safety of everyone in the Wofford community is our priority. We will continue to monitor information provided by the Consumer Product Safety Commission as they investigate reported concerns and work to develop safety standards. Thank you for your patience and prompt adherence to the new policy.

It's your world.

February 2, 2016

TO: Members of the Wofford Community
FROM: Kara Bopp, Chair
Provost Search Committee
SUBJECT: Candidate Campus Visits

As you know from previous reports on behalf of the Provost Search Committee, the final phase of our recruitment effort includes the selection of candidates who will visit the campus. The committee met on Jan. 26 and 27 and interviewed nine semi-finalists who were selected from a diverse pool that totaled 95 candidates. As a result of their written materials, initial references and our interviews, we have identified four strong candidates about whom we wish to learn more. All four have been invited to visit the campus within the coming weeks. We will inform you of the candidates' identities and the details of their time on campus as soon as possible. Their CVs will be posted on myWofford to allow you time to review before each visit. The search committee encourages your participation as we welcome these candidates, as well as their spouses, to the campus. Each candidate will be on campus for a day and a half. The full dates are as follows, with the half date the following day:

Candidate #1 – Thursday, Feb. 11

Candidate #2 – Monday, Feb. 15

Candidate #3 – Thursday, Feb. 18

Candidate #4 – Thursday, Feb. 25

Of course, these visits will allow the Wofford community to get to know each candidate. At the same time, it also will provide these candidates with an opportunity to judge the strengths and distinctions that we might offer them. Throughout the search process, the committee has pledged to protect the identities of candidates. While we can no longer promise complete confidentiality to these visiting candidates, we ask that you respect the notion that we will not openly publicize their visits beyond our campus community. In addition to the search committee's preliminary interviews with these candidates, we and the AGB Search Firm have had many conversations with individuals who have worked with them and know them well. We urge you to bear in mind that further inquiries about them should be handled only by the search committee

Committee.

The campus visits will include meetings with various Wofford constituencies, including an open forum for all faculty, students, staff and administration. Candidates will be asked to make a brief presentation in an open forum, followed by a period of Q & A. We, the search committee and President Samhat encourage you to attend this session, and any other sessions you are invited to, if you can. Each candidate's partner also will have the opportunity to get to know various members of the community, tour campus and greater Spartanburg.

You will be invited to provide your impressions of each candidate immediately after each of their visits via an electronic survey form. More detailed information (schedules, logistics and how to access the electronic survey to provide feedback) will be forwarded to you soon. If you have any suggestions, please email Dr. Kara Bopp at boppkl@wofford.edu.

We are extremely pleased with the progress of the search and look forward to launching this final phase. Thank you for your continuing support and assistance.

Where: Leonard Auditorium

Contact: Eun Sun Lee

Ongoing:

3D: Optic Wonders from Special Collections, Sandor Teszler Library Gallery

Stereoscopes are making a comeback—Get ready to see the world as it appeared more than 100 years ago! The stereoscope, a small headset-viewer introduced to the public at the 1851 Crystal Palace Exhibition in London, mimics the brain's ability to combine different perspectives from the left and right eyes to perceive depth. Stereoscopes allow for 3D views that give the illusion of immersion in a scene. Viewers in the 19th and early 20th centuries found themselves transported to faraway locales, luxurious palace interiors, and modern industrial sites. In this exhibition, images from stereographs held in Special Collections are enlarged 1200 percent and converted into anaglyph 3D, viewable with the red-and-blue-lensed glasses provided.

EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS: Works by Jessica Elaine Blinkhorn, Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery

EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS juxtaposes the hyper-sexualized with the desexualized. The forms are paired with balloons, which function as a surrogate for life. The exhibit is intended to show that form does not matter, and that socially integrated expectations can be damaging to the individual. Through EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS, Blinkhorn shows that life is short and at times unfair, but it still offers opportunities to tell our story.

Join flutist Chris Vaneman and The Petrie Winds for an evening of solo and chamber works that explore the boundaries of virtuosity and artistic color. The first half of the concert will feature works of brilliant flute technique with Chris Vaneman, beginning by collaborating with pianist Julie Smith on JS Bach's seminal Sonata in B-minor, a work of deep imagery and soulful beauty. Following will be a set of concert etudes for solo flute, each showcasing a different aspect of flutistic virtuosity. Closing the first half is Robert Dick's Fish are Jumping, a work for solo flute inspired by the stylings of guitar legend Jimi Hendrix. For the second half of the program, Chris will be joined by the rest of the Petrie Winds, Converse's faculty wind quintet, in performing two new works by young upcoming composers. Lebanese-American composer Mohammed Fairouz's Jebel Lebanon weaves together Middle Eastern melodies and Western timbres as it tells the tale of the effects of civil war in the composer's ancestral home. Closing the program, New York-based composer Brian DuFord's Vignettes Balletiques offers a modern, light-hearted takes on dances from the Tarantella to the Mambo.

Cognitive Dissonance

January 26 to March 25, 2016

Admission: FREE

Spartanburg Art Museum

Exhibit Time(s): Tues. - Sat. 10am-5pm, Sun. 1-5pm

Cognitive Dissonance collects [nine] artists who hold a contrary view. It does not matter how perfect the political system, how egalitarian the access for information or how baroque the manners and mores of a society—it remains imperfect. Humans are the brick with which any society is constructed—and this necessary element is imperfect. People are as corrupt, superstitious and altruistic today as they were when the first man painted buffalo's on a cave in Lascaux, France.

Society is only as perfect as the material it is forged from. Just as ceramics is only as pure as the material it is made from. Faced with this assertion, nihilism becomes seductive. The artists selected to be in Cognitive Dissonance all eschew this assumption. Their works affirm that imperfection is not only essential but in some ways glorious. As such, the lively experiment started in Rhode Island, continues today and perpetually.

BECOMING SEXUAL:

A Critical Appraisal of the Sexualization of Girls

R. Danielle Egan

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 16

3:00 - 4:30 p.m.

3:00-4:30 p.m.
HEC 2001

The sexualization of girls has captured the attention of the media, advocacy groups and politicians in recent years. This prolific discourse sets alarm bells ringing; sexualization is said to lead to depression, promiscuity and compassion deficit disorder and rob young girls of their childhood. However, measuring such claims against a wide range of data sources reveals a far more complicated picture.

Becoming Sexual begins with a simple question: why does this discourse feel so natural? Analyzing potent cultural and historical assumptions and subjecting them to measured investigation, R. Danielle Egan illuminates the implications of dominant thinking on sexualization. The sexualized girl functions as a metaphor for cultural decay and as a common enemy through which adult rage, discontent and anxiety regarding class, gender, sexuality, race and the future can be expressed. Egan argues that, ultimately, the popular literature on sexualization is more reflective of adult disquiet than it is about the lives and practices of girls.

Becoming Sexual will be a welcome intervention into these fraught polemics for anyone interested in engaging with a high-profile contemporary debate and will be particularly useful for students of sociology, cultural studies, childhood studies, gender studies and media studies.

Dr. Egan is Coordinator and Professor of Gender and Sexuality at St. Lawrence University. This talk is based on her book, Becoming Sexual, published by Polity Press in 2013 and named Book of the Week by the Times Higher Education Supplement.

THIS EVENT IS FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC.

Colleagues,

Please be advised that Dr. Carl Safina's flight to Spartanburg was canceled last night due to a weather in New York. It has been rescheduled for this morning, and we believe he will arrive at GSP 12:45 p.m. (barring any other cancellations).

His new arrival time precludes his coming to Wofford this morning or afternoon, and both his talk at 11:00 in McMillen Theater and his lunch in Burwell have been canceled. At present, we believe that the reception and keynote address set for this evening will take place as scheduled.

He does have some available time on Wednesday morning and Dr. G.R. Davis will work with colleagues in the Biology Department to determine whether there might be any possibility of meeting with a class tomorrow morning.

I will provide updates on any further changes as they develop.

Thank you,

Dennis

3D: Optic Wonders from Special Collections, Sandor Teszler Library Gallery

Stereoscopes are making a comeback—Get ready to see the world as it appeared more than 100 years ago! The stereoscope, a small headset-viewer introduced to the public at the 1851 Crystal Palace Exhibition in London, mimics the brain's ability to combine different perspectives from the left and right eyes to perceive depth. Stereoscopes allow for 3D views that give the illusion of immersion in a scene. Viewers in the 19th and early 20th centuries found themselves transported to faraway locales, luxurious palace interiors, and modern industrial sites. In this exhibition, images from stereographs held in Special Collections are enlarged 1200 percent and converted into anaglyph 3D, viewable with the red-and-blue-lensed glasses provided.

EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS: Works by Jessica Elaine Blinkhorn, Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery

EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS juxtaposes the hyper-sexualized with the desexualized. The forms are paired with balloons, which function as a surrogate for life. The exhibit is intended to show that form does not matter, and that socially integrated expectations can be damaging to the individual. Through EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS, Blinkhorn shows that life is short and at times unfair, but it still offers opportunities to tell our story.

Cognitive Dissonance
January 26 to March 25, 2016

Admission: FREE

Spartanburg Art Museum

Exhibit Time(s): Tues. - Sat. 10am-5pm, Sun. 1-5pm

Cognitive Dissonance collects [nine] artists who hold a contrary view. It does not matter how perfect the political system, how egalitarian the access for information or how baroque the manners and mores of a society—it remains imperfect. Humans are the brick with which any society is constructed—and this necessary element is imperfect. People are as corrupt, superstitious and altruistic today as they were when the first man painted buffalo's on a cave in Lascaux, France.

Society is only as perfect as the material it is forged from. Just as ceramics is only as pure as the material it is made from. Faced with this assertion, nihilism becomes seductive. The artists selected to be in Cognitive Dissonance all eschew this assumption. Their works affirm that imperfection is not only essential but in some ways glorious. As such, the lively experiment started in Rhode Island, continues today and perpetually.

Date: February 19, 2016 at 1:23 PM
To: Wofford Staff and Faculty WoffordStaff@Wofford.Edu

W

Dear Colleagues,

I want to express my sincere thanks to all of you who participated in a General Education Task Group last semester. It is very exciting to see the amount of energy and commitment that the Wofford community is willing to contribute to this important discussion.

The Task Group reports from last semester are all posted now on the Curricular/Co-Curricular website. The Sharepoint website can found under “Systems Links” heading in the myWofford homepage. Or, you can just use this link:

<https://wofford.sharepoint.com/sites/currcocurr/SitePages/Home.aspx>

Also now posted on this website are notes from listening sessions with various academic departments about their role in the General Education program. Dr. Christine Dinkins, in her role as Coordinator of Assessment for General Education Reform, interviewed 15 academic departments on campus last semester. The departmental reports, as they are approved by the departments, will be posted on the Curricular/Co- Curricular website. If your department hasn’t had an opportunity to meet with Dr. Dinkins, please feel free to contact her at dinkinscs@wofford.edu.

Because there is a lot of information on the Curricular/Co-Curricular website, I have tried to make navigating it a little bit easier by creating a Table of Contents at the top of the page. The TOC describes the location of various documents and information (see below). If you still aren’t able to find something or have suggestions for other things that should go on the page, please email me at joneskj@wofford.edu or call me at ext. 4638.

Where are we now in the General Education Reform process?

The General Education Steering Committee will be having our first meeting of the semester on Friday, Feb. 19. Among other things, the Committee will be discussing the Task Group reports and the departmental interview reports this semester. We also will be planning an afternoon of concurrent sessions (date TBA) where members of the Task Groups will have the opportunity to discuss the work of their groups with interested members of the Wofford community.

Thanks again for the energy around this effort. I will be back in touch as things develop, and will be posting updates on the website throughout the semester.

Sincerely,

NEW DATE & TIME for Civic Learning/E-Portfolios Luncheon

Due to a conflict, the luncheon to discuss the goals of this planning grant, including the faculty/staff pilot to use e-portfolios in supporting assessment of civic learning (e.g., civic literacy, civic inquiry, and civic engagement) has been rescheduled for Thursday, March 10, 11:30 a.m. – 12:45 p.m. Please RSVP not later than Tuesday, March 8, to Jessalyn at StoryJW@wofford.edu. Details on applying for the pilot are attached. Interest in being part of the pilot is not necessary for attending this or any of the gatherings associated with implementation of the grant.

CBL/CIL offers Academic Fellowships in Civic Learning (Civic Engagement, Civic Literacy, & Civic Inquiry) and ePortfolios

Thanks to a planning grant from the Arthur Vining Davis Foundations to strengthen civic learning with electronic portfolios, we invite applications from faculty or staff planning or willing to teach Fall 2016 courses that include Civic Engagement, Civic Literacy and/or Civic Inquiry* to participate in the Civic Learning/E-Portfolios pilot program, as Civic Learning Fellows. (You may remember these terms from last year's "Civic-Minded Wofford" discussions. Working definitions of each are below).

Faculty/Staff selected to be Civic Learning Fellows will:

- Build and lead an interdisciplinary community of practice with other civic-minded Wofford faculty and staff;
- Receive training and support in strengthening civic learning, the application of that learning, and in using e-Portfolios to capture and assess both;
- Lead students in using an innovative platform to capture and assess their learning;
- Contribute to the taxonomy of practice of civic learning at Wofford this grant was written to develop;
- Receive a stipend; and
- (Hopefully) experience a renewed sense of energy, excitement and purpose in their teaching.

Civic Learning Fellows Timeline:

- March 10, 2016: Informational meeting on the grant, including the Pilot
- March 31, 2016: Fellowship Applications Due
- April, 2016: Fellowships Announced
- May, 2016: 1st (required for Fellows) Pathbrite training
- Pre-Session, 2016: 2nd (required for Fellows) Pathbrite training
- Fall, 2016: Fellows teach courses with civic learning and Pathbrite and participate in various workshops, discussions and assessment labs, as well as external evaluator visits and perhaps site visits to other campuses offered by the CBL & CIL, per the AVD grant;
- Spring, 2017: Fellows continue participating in trainings, discussions and assessment labs offered by the CBL & CIL, per the AVD grant, but are more often presenting and leading at them – guiding us toward the “taxonomy” the grant was written to develop.
- Summer 2017: Taxonomy of Practice at Wofford (set of shared learning outcomes for civic learning courses, pedagogical best practices, course assignments around civic learning, examples of exemplary student artifacts, etc.) is published digitally and in print.

Applications should include the following materials:

1. Description of the course and course outcomes. Please describe the course you will be teaching and the outcomes you seek. Please place specific emphasis on those outcomes that relate to civic learning (CE, CL or CI). You may find it helpful to look at AAC&U's Value Rubrics, perhaps especially the Civic Engagement Value Rubric. Draft syllabi are welcome.
2. What experience have you with Civic Engagement, Civic Literacy and/or Civic Inquiry? None is required!
3. Are there specific barriers to civic learning or its application that you'd like to see addressed in trainings and workshops? If so, what are they?
4. Fellows' willingness to Learn. Please include your willingness to participate in both training sessions on Pathbrite (our ePortfolio platform) in May and in Pre-Session, as they will be mandatory for Fellows; and to participate fully in as many workshops, reading group discussions, CBL assessment labs, etc. as you can.
5. Sharing and Dissemination. Describe your willingness to participate in building a set of assignments/reflections for use in future courses, a set of shared learning outcomes for civic learning at Wofford, and other pedagogical civic learning best practices; and if you might be willing to co-author or present on the work in your classroom.

Please forward your application no later than Thursday, March 31st, 2016 to MilesJD@wofford.edu and StoryJW@wofford.edu.

Questions may be directed to either John Miles, Dean of the Center for Innovation & Learning; or Jessalyn Story, Director of the Center for Community-Based Learning. Email addresses above.

*Working Definitions of the terms we are collectively referring to as "Civic Learning:"

- Civic Literacy – the cultivation of foundational knowledge about fundamental principles and debates about democracy, expressed over time, both within the U.S and in other countries; familiarity with several key historical struggles, campaigns and social movements undertaken to achieve the full promise of democracy; and the ability to think critically about complex issues and to seek and evaluate information about issues that have public consequences.
- Civic Inquiry – the practice of inquiring about the civic dimensions and public consequences of a subject of study; the exploration of the impact of choices on different constituencies and entities, including the planet; the deliberate consideration of differing points of view; and the ability to describe and analyze civic intellectual debates within one's major or areas of study.
- Civic Engagement – Collaboration between your classroom and the larger community (local, regional/state, national and/or global) for the mutually beneficial exploration, application and exchange of knowledge and resources in a context of partnership and reciprocity. Such collaborations:

- Address critical societal issues, improve the human condition, and enhance the public good;
  - Strengthen civic responsibility, democratic values and social justice; prepare aware, effective, engaged citizens; and build the capacity of all involved to understand and collectively address issues of public concern; and
  - Enrich the scholarship, innovation, teaching, learning and research of Wofford College.
- We're also interested in coursework that builds students' appreciation for and ability to create and sustain a "Civic Ethos" - defined (for now) as the infusion of democratic values into the customs and habits of everyday practices, structures, and interactions; the defining character of the institution and those in it that emphasizes open-mindedness, civility, the worth of each person, ethical behaviors, and concern for the well-being of others; and a spirit of public-mindedness that influences the goals of the institution and its engagement with local and global communities.

If you are teaching (or plan to teach) a course that includes any of these elements, we hope to see your application!

Thank you for your consideration.

3D: Optic Wonders from Special Collections, Sandor Teszler Library Gallery

Stereoscopes are making a comeback—Get ready to see the world as it appeared more than 100 years ago! The stereoscope, a small headset-viewer introduced to the public at the 1851 Crystal Palace Exhibition in London, mimics the brain's ability to combine different perspectives from the left and right eyes to perceive depth. Stereoscopes allow for 3D views that give the illusion of immersion in a scene. Viewers in the 19th and early 20th centuries found themselves transported to faraway locales, luxurious palace interiors, and modern industrial sites. In this exhibition, images from stereographs held in Special Collections are enlarged 1200 percent and converted into anaglyph 3D, viewable with the red-and-blue-lensed glasses provided.

EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS: Works by Jessica Elaine Blinkhorn, Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery

EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS juxtaposes the hyper-sexualized with the desexualized. The forms are paired with balloons, which function as a surrogate for life. The exhibit is intended to show that form does not matter, and that socially integrated expectations can be damaging to the individual. Through EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS, Blinkhorn shows that life is short and at times unfair, but it still offers opportunities to tell our story.

Spartanburg Art Museum

Cognitive Dissonance collects [nine] artists who hold a contrary view. It does not matter how perfect the political system, how egalitarian the access for information or how baroque the manners and mores of a society—it remains imperfect. Humans are the brick with which any society is constructed—and this necessary element is imperfect. People are as corrupt, superstitious and altruistic today as they were when the first man painted buffalo's on a cave in Lascaux, France.

Society is only as perfect as the material it is forged from. Just as ceramics is only as pure as the material it is made from. Faced with this assertion, nihilism becomes seductive. The artists selected to be in Cognitive Dissonance all eschew this assumption. Their works affirm that imperfection is not only essential but in some ways glorious. As such, the lively experiment started in Rhode Island, continues today and perpetually.

Date/Time: 2/24/2016 4:00:00 PM

Location: McMillan Theater

Details: Prof. Albert Scherr (Univ. of New Hampshire School of Law)-- Cyber attacks happen every week now: some from individuals in other countries on private U.S. companies or agencies of the U.S. government or other governments; some from foreign state entities, be they state-ordered or rogue; and some from terrorists. When do and when should such attacks move from conduct meriting criminal prosecution to conduct meriting a declaration of war? And, if war is merited, what should be the dimensions of such a war? Would you countenance the invasion of a foreign country in response to a cyberattack that completely comprised a public utility system, the defense department or another agency but that resulted in no deaths? Campus Safety has received reports of break-ins of several vehicles last night in the Spartanburg Memorial Auditorium parking lot. Some stolen items belonging to Wofford students were found in the alleged perpetrator's possession after he was taken to the hospital by EMS for an unknown medical condition. It was determined that the man searched for vehicles that were unlocked.

Students, faculty and staff are reminded to make sure you lock your vehicles parked on campus, especially those in the SMA, Marsh and Carlisle parking lots. Also, remove anything of value from your parked vehicle or, at the very least, store those items out of sight.

Please be vigilant in the parking lots and report any suspicious activity or crimes immediately to Campus Safety at 864-597-4911 or ext. 4199 from a campus telephone.

EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS: Works by Jessica Elaine Blinkhorn, Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery

EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS juxtaposes the hyper-sexualized with the desexualized. The forms are paired with balloons, which function as a surrogate for life. The exhibit is intended to show that form does not matter, and that socially integrated expectations can be damaging to the individual. Through EPHEMERAL FLIGHTS, Blinkhorn shows that life is short and at times unfair, but it still offers opportunities to tell our story.

Admission: FREE

Spartanburg Art Museum

Cognitive Dissonance collects [nine] artists who hold a contrary view. It does not matter how perfect the political system, how egalitarian the access for information or how baroque the manners and mores of a society—it remains imperfect. Humans are the brick with which any society is constructed—and this necessary element is imperfect. People are as corrupt, superstitious and altruistic today as they were when the first man painted buffalo's on a cave in Lascaux, France.

Society is only as perfect as the material it is forged from. Just as ceramics is only as pure as the material it is made from. Faced with this assertion, nihilism becomes seductive. The artists selected to be in Cognitive Dissonance all eschew this assumption. Their works affirm that imperfection is not only essential but in some ways glorious. As such, the lively experiment started in Rhode Island, continues today and perpetually.

Dear Wofford community:

The Board of Trustees enjoyed a productive meeting on campus this week. Student and faculty representatives met with each of the board committees to continue the work of realizing the college's strategic vision. The board amended the Bylaws of the College to codify the reorganization of the committee structure. The new committees include academics, enrollment, operations, student experience and advancement.

During the meeting, the board approved the college's tuition, fees, room and board for 2016-17. The overall increase of 4 percent results in comprehensive fees of $51,880 for the upcoming academic year. This is a decline in the rate of increase from the past two years and is an indication of the college's commitment to cost management and access.

The college remains committed to ensuring that a Wofford education is accessible and affordable and that our students graduate in four years. To help families with the cost of higher education, Wofford College offers a robust financial aid program that during the 2015-16 academic year distributed more than $50 million in merit and need-based scholarships, federal and state aid, as well as outside scholarships and loans.

During the weekend, members of the board also met student leaders and representatives from Campus Union, an opportunity facilitated by Campus Union President Billy Moody. This was an opportunity for students to share their thoughts with the board, and it was well received.

The board approved improvements to the infrastructure of Marsh Hall. The first-year residence hall will get a new roof and HVAC system. The board also voted to expand the college's energy hub to serve the residence halls and the new Rosalind Sallenger Richardson Center for the Arts, and the board formed an ad hoc committee on collegiate athletics to prepare Wofford to address important issues in this area.

Please feel free to contact me should you have questions or suggestions. I sincerely appreciate your help in this important work.

Sincerely,

Nayef
